

Readings for Sunday, May 10, 2020

Opening Words

A Place We Are Creating

John Schaar

The future is not some place we are going, but one we are creating. The paths are not to be found, but made.

And the activity of making them changes both the maker and the destination.

Closing Words

from Four Quartets, Section V.

T. S. Eliot

What we call the beginning is often the end
And to make an end is to make a beginning.

The end is where we start from. . . .

We shall not cease from exploration

And the end of all our exploring

We will arrive where we started

And know the place for the first time.